

New book from the Council of State Archivists

- Are you prepared?
- Records: Your risk reducers
- Which records are most important?
- Essential records checklist
- How to protect family records

Softcover (8½"x11")

24 pp.

ISBN 978-0-9800189-0-5

Council of State Archivists

308 E Burlington St #189

Iowa City IA 42240

Email: prepare@statearchivists.org

Telephone: 319-338-0248

A new manual, Rescuing Family Records: A Disaster Planning Guide, is available from the Council of State Archivists (CoSA). Written by David Carmicheal, the state archivist of Georgia, this manual provides practical guidance to help individuals and families protect their most important legal documents and irreplaceable pieces of family history from loss during a disaster.

Rescuing Family Records describes the records that protect a family's finances, health, civil rights, and family history. The manual prompts readers to think through all the records that may help their family survive disaster and return to normal afterwards.

Order online at www.StateArchivists.org/prepare/families.htm

$10 + $3 s/h